Nutrition/Snacks

Breakfast:

Depending if you are competing in 2 or 24 hour weigh ins, nutrition will look a little different to you. Either way, double check with your coach if you are cleared for breakfast.

Otherwise:

If competing in a 2 hour weigh in federation; eat a light breakfast with a healthy mix of complex and simple carbs to fuel your day, a decent amount of fats and proteins as well.

If competing in a 24 hour weigh in federation; eat to your hearts content (joking). Still stick around the healthy mix of carbs, fats & proteins. But you might have a little more leeway in this arena.

Post Lifts:

This is your time to fuel and stay ahead of the fatigue. Sit, chill, sip liquids and eat. Do NOT eat or drink new things on meet day. Keep to what your body knows and likes.

I would suggest a good mix of simple and complex carbs (about 100g) and decent proteins (20g) between each lift. Low fat is better.

Snacks/Food

- ☐ Uncrustables (my fav)
- ☐ Sugary candy (sourpatch kids, sour strips)
- ☐ Honey/Maple syrup
- ☐ Rice cakes/bagels
- ☐ Fruit (bananas, pineapple, etc)
